

THE HISTORY HARVEST

Join us for History Harvest Blitz Week

historyharvest.unl.edu | April 8-12, 2013 |  #history_harvest

Share feedback, suggestions, ideas, and strategies for building The History Harvest. We will capture comments on Twitter, our blog, and Google Hangout for continued conversation. We welcome faculty, teachers, students, librarians, technology professionals, and anyone interested in joining the project.

Monday April 8:

The Student Experience

How do we create authentic learning experiences for undergraduate students?

Tuesday April 9:

Archiving The People's History

How do we digitize, curate, and manage community history?

Wednesday April 10:

Building Community Partnerships

How do we work effectively with partners to share resources and materials?

Thursday April 11:

Teaching the History Harvest

Join our Google Hangout to discuss best practices - 4pm EDT youtube.com/historyharvest or historyharvest.unl.edu/hangout

Friday April 12:

Reflection and Planning the National History Harvest

Join the NITLE Seminar with William G. Thomas and Patrick D. Jones
3pm EDT - Register at nitle.org

History Harvest is an open, digital archive of historical artifacts gathered from communities across the United States. The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Department of History partners with institutions and individuals within highlighted communities to collect, preserve, and share their rich histories. Advanced undergraduates lead the History Harvest project and curate and digitize these artifacts and stories. We believe that our collective history is more diverse and multi-faceted than most people give credit for and that most of this history is not found in archives, historical societies, museums or libraries, but rather in the stories that ordinary people have to tell from their own experience and in the things - the objects and artifacts - that people keep and collect to tell the story of their lives. The History Harvest, then, is an invitation to local people to share their historical artifacts, and their stories, for inclusion in a unique digital archive of what we are calling the "people's history."

For more information, contact: William G. Thomas wthomas4@unl.edu or Patrick D. Jones democracy8888@yahoo.com

historyharvest.wordpress.com

@HistoryHarvest

facebook.com/HistoryHarvest